The Best Men's Clothing.

Our Ready-to-Wear Clothing for men is naturally varied in cost, but that variation has definite limits. For instance, if we say Winter Overcoats $12.50 to $50.00, the price limits are not merely a caprice, but the result of thorough investigation. $12.50 means the lowest possible price at which an overcoat honestly made of honest materials can be sold. $50.00 means the highest price at which the best overcoat made can be honestly marked, when only a modest profit is charged. And between these limits are overcoats to suit every purse-each one faultless in fit perfectly tailored and differing from its neighbor only in material and cut.

Of course, fabrics, half shoddy, can be thrown together at less than $12.50, and naturally, a high-priced tailor may charge more than $50.00 to put his label in a find it here between these limits. And this applies equally to every article of clothing you may need.

BROOKLYN.

The Thermometer of Prices Reaches Zero.

The first real touch of cold weather is one of the best tests of the usefulness and reliableness of this great store. So many things to buy in a hurry—no time to wait—no time to hunt around and shop and compare in order to be sure you are buying to the best advantage. And what you need, like diamonds or horses, must be bought either with accurate knowledge or trust. Isn't it safest then to buy where you know you can buy with full confidence? No magic in our merchan-But if you wish one hundred cents in dising, but everyone who comes to this store is surrounded and safeguarded by the best goods that natural skill, knowledge, years of training and the very organs value for every dollar you spend, you can of activity can procure—at prices that are always pushed to the very lowest point—and besides guaranteed to be as low or lower than you can buy anywhere. And because in the natural course of events progress, cumulative in effect, forces the to-morrows ahead of the to-days, you will find on Monday that the thermometer of prices has reached zero.
